CLASSROOM SPOTLIGHTS

Dear Parents,

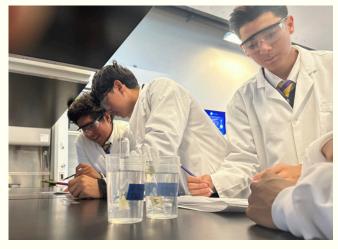

This week in Honors Biology, students completed a two-day lab investigation on photosynthesis. In this experiment, students explored how different environmental factors influence the rate of photosynthesis. Working in teams, they tested a variety of scenarios, such as changing the amount of light available and adding extra carbon dioxide to the system.

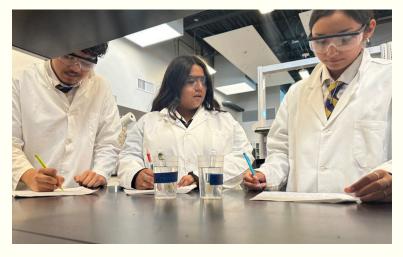

Through these experiments, students gathered data on plant responses under the different conditions. They will now analyze their results by creating graphs and using their evidence to support a written lab report. This report will not only summarize their findings but also help them strengthen their skills in scientific reasoning, data interpretation, and formal writing.

The photosynthesis lab is designed to connect classroom learning with hands-on inquiry, giving students the opportunity to see how core biological processes can be measured and tested in real time.

Congratulations to Our New NJHS & NHS Inductees!

We are excited to announce that the National Junior Honor Society and National Honor Society induction ceremony was held today during lunch in the Lecture Hall. This special event marked the official welcome of our newest members into the NJHS and NHS chapters for the 2024-2025 school year.

The ceremony began with inspiring words from our Headmaster, followed by remarks from our chapter advisor and both chapter presidents. Each spoke about the importance of scholarship, leadership, service, and character—the pillars of our honor societies.

After taking the official pledge of oath, all members were formally inducted and recognized for their outstanding achievements and commitment to excellence. Following the ceremony, students celebrated with food and refreshments.

We are incredibly proud of our new members and look forward to the positive impact they will make this year. Congratulations to all our new inductees!
